

License for the BOSS Program

1. The licensee is granted a nonexclusive license for unlimited users to install and use the software system known as BOSS on any computers operated by the licensee within a 1 mile radius of one central location. The BOSS software system means all files obtained with the BOSS distribution including source code, executable code, parameter files, test jobs, users manual, and auxiliary programs including autozmat. Farther access requires a remote site agreement. Licensor warrants that the software will perform as described in the user's manual.
2. If the source code for BOSS is obtained, the licensee may modify the software to form derivative works. The restrictions specified herein also apply to the derivative works.
3. The licensee has no ownership rights in the BOSS software, OPLS force fields or in any copyrights for the BOSS software, OPLS force fields or documentation through this license.
4. The licensee shall not distribute any portion of the BOSS software system or of any derivative works based upon the BOSS software system to third parties without prior written authorization from Cemcomco, which will not be unreasonably withheld. Permission to publish unpublished algorithms and force field parameters from BOSS can also be negotiated. Authorization in electronic form has the same effect as a handwritten signature.
5. The licensee may demonstrate the use of the BOSS software to third parties on computer systems operated by the licensee as designated in point 1 above.
6. Use of the BOSS program will be appropriately acknowledged in publications, e.g.: Jorgensen, W. L.; Tirado-Rives, J. J. Comput. Chem. 2005, 26, 1689-1700.
7. The licensee recognizes the developmental nature of the BOSS software system and will hold no person or organization liable for any damages resulting from its use.
8. Licensor warrants that the software will not infringe upon or violate any patent, copyright, trademark, trade secret, or other proprietary right of any third party. Should the software become the subject of a claim of infringement of a third party's proprietary right, licensor shall accept the return of the software and reimburse licensee for charges in the last year.
9. Assignment. Neither Party shall assign this Agreement or any part thereof without the prior written consent of the other Party. Either Party may assign the same without consent in connection with the transfer sale of substantially its entire business to which this Agreement pertains or in the event of its merger or consolidation with another company. No assignment shall relieve any Party of the responsibility for performance of any accrued obligation either Party has under this Agreement. The party making the approved assignment shall pay all costs associated with making the assignment. In the event of sale or divestiture of a business which is a principal user of the licensed programs, the right to use or benefit from the License extends to that business for the remaining term of the License or a twelve (12) month transition period, whichever is shorter.

10. Purchase of the software by the licensee is taken as acceptance of these licensing conditions. Acceptance in electronic form has the same effect as a handwritten signature.
